MACLAY AUCTION 2022

Tonight, we are coming together after so much time apart to celebrate this remarkable school and the thing that makes this special institution what it is – our incredible faculty.

Over the last three years since we gathered last for the Maclay Auction, the school has accomplished much together and responded to some of the most significant tests we have faced as a community. Our faculty have innovated, pivoted, adapted, and cared for our students day after day. With each challenge, they rose to the occasion time and again, and I personally could not be more proud to work alongside each of them.

Coming together has been a theme for us this year as we have all missed the special community connections that make being a part of the Maclay community so wonderful. Tonight, we come together to honor our faculty, the remarkable educators that they are, and the dedication that they have continued to show for each student on our campus.

This evening we are proud and excited to share a new step forward in the way that we think about faculty support and our commitment to our faculty as an institution for the long term. With the establishment of the Faculty Salary & Supplementation Endowment, the seeds for the dream of providing Maclay Faculty with benefits and compensation that outmatch any comparable institution have been sown. Thanks to the generosity of each of you this evening, and our community of supporters, we have been able to establish this endowment which, when it grows, will support the growth of our faculty salaries and benefits, so that in the long term, our faculty will be compensated at a level greater than any comparable public or private school. This is a significant and ambitious goal, but together, we have made incredible things possible, and I know we will do the same as we work to build this fund.

Thank you to each of you for the role that you play in the success of Maclay. Being able to gather together to celebrate our school and our faculty makes for an evening full of joy and gratitude. I know we all appreciate it a bit more after these past two years, and I feel so grateful to be here with each of you.

This evening is the culmination of so much creativity, thought, love, work, and care, that our dedicated team of auction volunteers and committee members have put together. The generous giving spirit of our volunteers, and visionary leadership of Lisa Jackson, this year's chair, have truly made this night's festivities possible and for that we are so grateful.

Cheers! James Milford

1. Ed Does Your Tree

When it comes to Christmas trees, Ed just knows how it's done! He will work with the winning bidder to take their Christmas decorating style and elevate it to best-tree-in-town status!

This includes:

Initial consultation: Ed will come to your house and discuss how you want your tree to look, where it's placed, and go through your existing decorations with you. Ed will work with you to determine your style and just how you'd like your dream tree to look. This meeting needs to happen early (in May) so Ed has plenty of time to source goodies for your tree!

Orders placed: based on the initial meeting, Ed will place orders for ribbon, ornaments, natural items... whatever is appropriate to create the tree of your dreams!

Installation time: Ed will come to your house on a date arranged between you and Ed, put up your tree, light it (teach you his secret lighting tricks), and decorate the tree. You can be as involved as you want... be there the entire time, or be gone and come home to the surprise, it's up to you!

The "Ed Does Your Tree" Package includes Ed's consultation time and installation labor, any materials Ed sources, and a fresh Fraser Fir Christmas tree (unless the winner has their own artificial tree they would like to use), and the correct tree stand (unless the winner has their own stand they'd like to use).

805. Painting by Maclay's own Kaitlyn Dressel & Mia Evert

"Untitled" was done in collaboration with Mia Evert. This painting represents grace, strength, determination, and the joy that one can find in themselves when they choose to pursue love. This painting took months to create. Large pours of vibrant pigments done one layer at a time and Mia's intentional slow movements throughout this canvas dance to freedom, joy, and ultimately trust. It's learning to trust in something far better than you could have ever planned on your own.

Mia lost her independence at a very young age in an accident. Over the years she has had to relearn how to walk, communicate, and move in a new way. Mia's joy radiates in everything that she does and it is truly contagious. She has made the most beautiful story and we hope that you can see that in this painting.
